See Waring vs. Loomis, 8 Barb, 581.

In this case 15 sheep were sold out of 21 or 22 present. On being asked which sheep he sold; the contable said the best and fattest; all were driven away by parchaser and selection made and the balance were driven back.—The sale was held void.

The Court, Judge Marqin, says. It was the sale of a right to select out 18 sheep from the fiock. A constable has no pewer to make such a sale or or outract, if the owner sheedl make such a sale or or contract, if the owner sheedl make such a sale or or contract, if the owner sheedl make such a sale or or contract, if the owner sheedl make.

We think this reasoning is cooclusive.

In New York State it is provided by statute that the goods and chatches sold shall be present and printed out to the inspection and examination of bidders.

But before any statute and at common law such a sale was held yold.

Kosri, Jan. I.—General Gordon's note was not an inch square. The paper was rolled up about the size of a pin and was sewn in a seam in one of the messengers qarments. General Gordon estimates the Mahdi's force at from 20,000 to 80,000 men. The messenger adds that in a recent engagement one of the enemy's guns was disabled. The Khartoum garrison is able to held out. General Gordon spends his nights in conseless watch, visiting the outpeats to see that every sentry is on the alert. He has two palaces, with guns mounted on alert. He has two palaces, with guns mounted on each. He always cannines the guns at daybreak in order that he may assure himself that they are properly primed and ready for action. He then lies down and aleeps during the greater purt of the day, General Gordon is described as cheerful. The men are well supplied with tobacco. Cano, Jan. I.—There is great rejoicing here over the good tidings from General Gordon.

New ORLEARS, Jan. I.—The Times-Democrat's Franklin special says: Sugar making has closed in this parish. The result is disastrous to the planters, as the yield, with few exceptions, has not been satisfactory. This, coupled with the low prices of the product, has discouraged and depressed the planters. The small yield is due to the extent of the drought of July, august and September, producing short, hard cane, with a heavy woody fibre and little saccharine matter. Quite a large area planted in the lower edge of the parishes was swept away by high water. The crop generally from those causes will fall largely short of last year. The prospect for the coming year, in view of the proposed ratification of the Mexican and Spanish treaties, and the difficulty of procuring advances to cultivate the cane crop is very gloomy. Planters are in great doubt as to the proper course to pursue. No contracts with laborers for the new year are being made and much apprehension is felt as to their future, as they are without means of support and sholly descendent was their diships labor.
